Quote of the Week:

Grades K-5 Character Education Lesson

(To be completed by Friday, May 28, 2021)

Think: Kendall throws his cap and refuses to congratulate the other team after a loss. Is he being a good sport? What are some of the things kids can do to be a good sport? Name some examples of good sportsmanship.

Watch: Winners Never Quit by Mia Hamm Read Aloud

Discuss: How do you feel when you lose? What do you do to show your feelings?

Activity: When looking at the rows of greeting cards, you might think there's a card for every occasion. No so, says Good Sports Greetings Company. So, Good Sports Greeting company has hired you to design a line of greeting cards to promote good sportsmanship among kids. Fold a plan piece of paper in half to create your card, then use art supplies to write words and draw pictures to decorate it. You can choose one of these types of cards to make or come up with your own:

A congratulations card for a good sport

An encouragement card for a member of a losing team

A card reminding a sore loser about good sportsmanship
